Travel, Agency, and the Circulation of Knowledge Oct 16 2019 Ever since the Gilgamesh epic and Homer's Odyssey, stories of travel and adventure, whether 'fictional', 'factual', or a mix of both, have been crucial to the collective self-definition of human societies. Since the early modern period and the increased frequency of cross-cultural encounters, the literary motif of the journey became a significant ingredient of colonial imagination. The ideology of adventure, crucial to many works of literature, pervades Western discourses of economic expansion and scientific discovery, while anthropologists, seeking to document indigenous story traditions, encountered an oral archive not unlike that of their own. Travelistic texts (by 'culture heroes', explorers, colonial agents, missionaries, scientific explorers, refugees, and foreign visitors) often provide the semantic repertoire for descriptions of 'exotic' spaces and populations. The knowledge gained through physical encounters during journeys to foreign lands often functions to revise inherited ideas about 'cultures' - those of others as well as one's own. The topics 'travel' and 'travel writing' therefore invite us to address questions of reliability and verifiability. This volume brings together experts from diverse disciplines and places around the globe whose work is concerned with the phenomenon and discourse of travel, transculturation, and the cross-cultural production of knowledge. The contributions reflect the recent shift in travel scholarship toward including the study of ideological conflicts within Europe's 'imperial gaze', as well as attempts at tracing the perspective of Europe's 'others', which frequently challenged colonial certainties and claims to intellectual supremacy.

Aster: When a client hands me a batch of gorgeous Old Earth antiques, my eyes linger on an odd, gilded mirror topped with a mysterious yellow stone. In all my years as a collector, I've never seen anything like it. And probably never will again. One silly misstep sends the stone sliding across my workroom. But it doesn't break. Instead, smoke fills my lungs and a beautiful woman appears out of thin air, her kohl-lined eyes staring daggers at me. Naia: What would you do if you woke up in a stranger's house with no idea how you got there? Yell at them and leave? Yeah, I would too. Leaving isn't so easy when I've awakened in the arms of a woman with captivating violet eyes and taut forearms that beg for my touch. Nothing feels real in this New World, except for Aster. I can feel myself come alive around her alluring androgyny and selflessness, but what would it take for her quiet demeanor to turn wild? And would that be enough to fight the pull of the past where I truly belong? New World Book 1: Stay with Me Book 2: Made for Me Book 3: Own Me Book 4: Breathe with Me Book 5: Safe with Me

Romance Oct 28 2020 Download for FREE with Kindle Unlimited This is a 26000 words EROTIC stand-alone story with an HEA, so no cliff-hangers! Soren Freeman isn't crazy, but everybody thinks he is. He was a time traveler early in life, but now he's simply a man who has spent a lot of time in a home for the mentally disabled. That is until a new psychiatrist, Dr. Josephine Lane does something that no one has ever done before. She believes him. As a result, he takes her on a journey by telling her of the time he spent in Paris in 1810. He fell in love with a wealthy heiress, but made the greatest mistake of his life by letting her slip through his fingers. Dr. Lane listens to his story with increasing interest, further convinced by the items from the past he willingly provides for her. When she finds out that his grief over this woman has prevented him from time traveling for twenty years, she encourages him to relearn the skill...and to take her along for the ride. -----

----- EXCERPT FROM BOOK And as he was soon to find, the most beautiful woman he had ever seen was also in Paris in 1810, so maybe everything had degraded aesthetically over time. He met Lorelai at a ball on his twenty fifth birthday. He never stood up and danced a single time that night. He watched from his chair as gentleman fell all over each other for a chance to dance with her. But he did not ask. He watched as she humored each and every one of them. He could tell who her mother was by the pleased look on the old dowager's face. Her daughter was making quite an impression. And as the night wore on, she noticed him too. She saw the peculiar man who could not take his eyes off her, but would not ask her to dance. She made eye contact with him a number of times, inviting him to request the next dance. But he never did. He just looked on. She could not help but notice that the man did not carry himself exactly correctly. He was slouched in his chair, and crossed his legs in an unmanly fashion. In fact, he did not seem to have any of the social graces of his contemporaries. It was as if he were from an entirely different time, but did not care. He cared only to watch her as she danced. AUTHOR'S NOTE: This is a 26000 words stand-alone story with an HEA, so no cliff-hangers!
